Want to have employers include RPs in Benefit Plans?

Here's Where You Come In!

1. At Intake, and (3-6 month) intervals, with Clients:

Ask your clients if they have insurance coverage. If so, ask them to check their plan to see if RPs are covered.

- a. If we're not, and they ask "What can I do?" you can:

- i. Send them a link to Client to Employer Letter under the Resources tab on the rptherapybenefits.ca site. They can take this template and edit it from there.
- ii. Suggest they check to see if they have a Health Spending Account. They can likely use funds in this account to cover your services if not directly in their plan.

- b. If we are covered under their plan, then take note of their employer and complete the form on rptherapybenefits.ca site under the Information We Need from You tab, this time clicking yes. This is really important as it helps us keep track, and then we can use these employers as examples when we're speaking to others.

- c. None of this should be coercive. This process is in their best interests, however, if they don't want to do any of this, that's fine.

2. Tap your Connections - Do you or your family have Contacts at larger employers and/or unions?

Having an inside track to the right person in an organization greatly improves our chances of getting an audience and saves us a lot of time – time that is being spent on your behalf without any compensation.

- a. Complete the form on rptherapybenefits.ca site under the Information We Need from You tab, at the lower portion of this page.

- b. If you are comfortable pursuing the lead, you can use the Resources on the site to assist you. If you need help, contact us at info@rptherapybenefits.ca

3. Talk it up amongst your RP colleagues – get them on board too!

4. Keep it coming ... this is an ongoing process until we achieve our mandate.

5. Don't want to complete the form? Just email us the info you have at info@rptherapybenefits.ca.

Do your part to get us to the Tipping Point!

Our goal is to have 80% of plans including RPs by the end of 2018. We can't do it without you!
